

PLACED BY
WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A dental tray is characterized in that a tray main body 1 provided with a knob 101 is made of aluminum, a molding part 102 formed along the gum is opened except to a connection 5 portion 1c, a protrusion and a bridging recess 3 are formed along the both side walls 1a and 1b of the opened portion, a molding groove is formed by coating a connection segment 5
made of a transparent synthetic resin with a designated width 10 and provided with a bridging groove 503 and a bridging recess 504 formed on the both connection portions 501 and 502.